Buck & Hickman launches new look socket set for mechanics

Buck & Hickman has launched a new version of its revolutionary universal socket set, with 3/8" square drive sockets to specifically meet the needs of mechanics.

The 'Unisocket' range is exclusive to the leading tool supplier under its 'Roebuck' brand and provides the ideal solution for mechanics who need to work on virtually any type of fastener and even those where the shoulders have become up to 70 per cent rounded off.

The UniSocket can do all of this thanks to its revolutionary socket design with one socket type able to fit virtually all types of fastener and the other capable of locking on securely to rounded off fasteners.

Kevin Thompson, Product Manager at Buck & Hickman, said: "The Unisocket has been incredibly popular since its launch in 2008, especially with engineers. We decided that mechanics would benefit from a 3/8" square drive set, so developed this new model just for them. Rather than having to endlessly search around for a socket that fits, the UniSocket provides a solution for virtually any application, saving time, tool box space and the need to invest in more than one set."

The Roebuck brand is exclusive to Buck & Hickman and offers a comprehensive range of over 23,000 tools, maintenance and health and safety products. Roebuck is unique in its combination of range, industrial quality and outstanding value for money.
